We have completed a review of your application papers and regret to advise you that the results were substantially as indicated by Mr. [redacted] at the time of your interview.

For the most part, our recruitment is designed to introduce a few junior officer trainees into our program each year. Openings at higher grades are ordinarily filled by the competitive advancement or reassignment of careerists in our service and the occasional vacancy of higher grade which cannot be filled through such action usually requires highly specialized qualifications pertinent to our fields of work. Your application was reviewed in the context of such openings as now exist but there appears to be nothing which would represent an opportunity for you.

We understand that you must make an early decision concerning your future employment and thus have not suggested retaining your application for periodic review. We shall, however, be glad to reactivate your file at any time and advise you concerning opportunities which might be available at such time.

Thank you again for your interest in service with us.

Mincerely,

STATINTL
